Accused of Inconsistency in Cases of Wolgast and Packey McFarland.

After vainly challenging all the white heavyweights Tom O'Rourke succeeded yesterday in securing a match for his new protege, Porky Flynn. Battling Levinsky has agreed to box ten rounds with Flynn at the National Sporting Club in West Forty-fourth street on January 13. These men mixed it up at a local club several months ago and appeared to be so evenly matched that there was a wide difference of opinion as to which had the better of the tilt. Flynn says that he took this match on short notice and had no time to train, but will be in proper condition when the return match takes place.

O'Rourke will put on Young Shugrue and Cyclone Smith at the N. S. C. to-night, "rain or shine," and has matched Kid Alberts to box Tommy Maloney, 142 sociated with him in bookmaking and and Cyclone Smith at the N. S. C. topounds ringside, at this club next Monday night. He also has made an offer to George Chip, middleweight champion, to box Jimmy Howard there a week later as a preliminary appearance to a meeting between Chip and George Ashe.

Ray Bronson and Young Saylor, both of Indianapolis, have arrived in Australia and will have plenty of matches. Saylor will box Pal Brown, another American lightweight, twenty rounds in Melbourne next Monday night. In time he concluded that laying prices was more profitable and he began operations in the local bet-ting rings on a small scale. He occu-pied a place in the "back line," where the chalkers were compelled to stand up with slates strung around their necks.

As Tyler learned the bookmaking game with rapidity he became a candidate for membership in the Mets, the big bookmakers' association, but because of personal jealousy, it was said, he was repeatedly blackballed.
